College Loans Now Available From The Horace Smith Fund

Students and their parents interested in obtaining loans to assist in financing a college education are invited to write to the Secretary of the Horace Smith Fund, Box 3034, Springfield, Mass. 01101.

The loan application cut-off date for high school seniors is July 1, 1972.

Application cut-off date for students presently attending college is June 15, 1972.

BEST BUYS

Native Crisp-Air apples—wintered over in controlled atmosphere storehouses to retain all of their taste, vitamins and vitality—remain on the Best Buy list this week, according to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. Though you rarely see them advertised, the Cortland—the one apple that's good for every purpose, cold or hot, sliced, diced, mixed or whole—is in good supply. This is the apple that resists turning brown when sliced for salads, retains its firmness and texture better than any other variety.

Massachusetts-grown McIntosh and Delicious apples, too, are in reasonable supply, priced almost as well as they were last fall.

Eggs in all sizes from nearby farms are plentiful, and rate Best Buy status. Native fowl, for soups, stews, salads and casseroles, is in good supply and reasonably priced. Massachusetts duckling holds its own, only a few cents per pound more than chicken or turkey.

Blue Hubbard squash from Massachusetts farms remains plentiful, both processed, in film bags, or by the pound in chunks, peeled and ready to bake.

This is the time of year to lay out the home garden, though it's still too early to plant seed in the Bay State. It's seed catalog-study time—and if you don't have any of the new ones, it's not too late to send for some. Check the ads in any of the shelter magazines; the seed people will rush their newest books right back to you.

You can get outdoors and prune the rose bushes. Cleaning up the lawn should wait a couple of weeks—the grass roots pull up too easily at this time of year. And it's a good time to check the mower ads; some recent special sales are encouraging.

in the Recreation office located behind the town hall, 36 Main St.

The Recreation Department will furnish the playing field, umpires and one new ball for each game. All teams must have at least one adult coach at each game. Rules and opening day will be set. Last year's champs were St. Anthony and the playoff winners was the Sacred Heart Giants. Fields to be used will be Sacred Heart, High School, Phelps Field and Shea's Field.

A 9-12 Baseball League will be started if there is enough interested organizations. This would be a Saturday league so that any team already playing in a league would not have a conflict with a schedule. Any group who has a team who would like to enter this new league, please contact the Recreation Department as soon as possible. This includes any of the little league teams already established, Major or Minor.

Notice To Mini Bike Operators

All playing areas and playgrounds are off limits. Already this Spring extensive damage has been done to playing fields. Any MINI BIKES or CARS that are caught on playing facilities will be prosecuted by the Park Commission. All areas will be posted as to the park rules for the summer season and will be strictly enforced. Bottles have been smashed on all tennis courts making it impossible for safe play, also NO golf practice.

Applications for all Summer positions will close on Friday, April 14. Applications are available at the town clerk's office as well as the Recreation office. There are still a few positions open.

A Vast Difference

The question has been asked, "Why, if the government has entered the passenger train business, should it not go whole hog and take over the railroad industry?" The answer is that there is no similarity between providing rail passenger service and conducting freight operations. Changing technology—development of the family auto, the airliner, intercity buses, etc.—made the long distance passenger train something of an anachronism. The reverse is true of rail freight service. Advancing technology, together with a host of other changes in our 20th century civilization, including those involving the environment, has made mass movement of goods by rail more essential than ever before. The railroads, as taxpaying private enterprises, can carry on the job of freight transportation in a way that no other agency can—least of all the government.

The place of the railroads in the transportation system as carriers of freight has been ably presented in a brief pamphlet published by the Association of American Railroads. The pamphlet shows some of the things the railroads are doing to keep abreast of rising freight transportation requirements, while at the same time they present the most forceful argument possible for congressional action to adopt public policies and laws relative to all transportation that would encourage each mode to perform at top efficiency in a balanced transport system. The pamphlet notes, "To the extent that their finances allow, the railroads are constantly replacing old equipment with new—and better—rolling stock. . . . Today's new (freight) cars have an average capacity of 80 tons. Cars in use 40 years ago averaged only a 46-ton capacity." Trains of these new cars are pulled by a new generation of diesel locomotives of more than 6,000 horsepower. There are predictions of 10,000—and 15,000-horsepower nuclear locomotives.

Confusing government entrance into the passenger train business with nationalization of the entire rail industry could prove nothing less than disastrous for taxpayers and for the economy to say nothing of the principle of private enterprise.

Future Role Of Females

"The survival of Mankind may rest with the future role of females—not as mothers, but as heads of states," states the Insurance Advocate. "The masculine virtues of aggression and competition reflecting present cultural and political values enhance violence and, in nationalistic terms, war. But such male machismo traits are becoming less and less adaptive to survival, a University of Colorado scientist suggests. Government by less-aggressive women might actually prove to be a superior adaption in evolutionary terms, he feels. . . . the 'less-aggressive' female thesis can be tested right now—just attend any post-Christmas bargain sale!"

NEWS FOR CONSUMERS

Massachusetts Consumers Receive Protection

(Attorney General Robert H. Quinn prepares this weekly column to inform Massachusetts residents about the state consumer laws.)

The enactment of consumer laws in Massachusetts has firmly established the consumer's right to protection against deceptive business practices, or to receive accurate information regarding his rights and to recourse against any violations.

To ensure the implementation and enforcement of our laws, a Consumer Protection Division was created in the Department of the Attorney General in 1967.

During 1971 the division received more than 12,000 complaints. At the present rate of increase this figure could go well beyond 15,000 for 1972.

division is to safeguard the consumer in accordance with Massachusetts laws. If a consumer is a victim of unfair or deceptive acts or practices, he should first discuss the matter with the company or business man in question. If he fails to receive satisfaction, he may file a complaint with the division stating the nature of the alleged abuse.

This complaint is then reviewed and assigned to a lawyer or investigator with expertise in this particular area, such as automobiles, home improvements, retailing, direct sales.

Division Jurisdiction

Sometimes complaints do not fall within the realm of the law. In these cases the division is unable to assist the consumer or to make demands upon the company. For this reason each year the attorney general files new legislation to further protect the consumer.

Where certain complaints do not fall within the jurisdiction of the attorney general's office, the division will support or make referrals to the appropriate agency or regulatory board.

Whenever the division believes that any purpose or company is using unlawful methods, acts or practices, certain specific can be taken. Among the powers of the attorney general are subpoena, injunctive relief, prosecution, and the refund of money to individuals who have suffered loss.

Massachusetts residents interested in obtaining information concerning consumer legislation should write to the Consumer Protection Division at the State House in Boston.

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

By BILL CHIBA

Ice went out at Congomond Lakes March 30th. I had predicted April 2nd, and many of my fellow anglers thought that I was too early. Most lakes in the area should be free of ice by April 15th, opening of the fishing season in Mass.

Saunders Marina is prepared this year to meet the onslot of last minute fishermen attempting to have their outboards put in shape for opening day. Art and Roger are on duty from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day from now to opening morning. Saunders coffee shop will open at 2 a.m. April 15th for the fishermen that don't want to take time to eat breakfast at home.

Elmer's Bait Shop will be open in the wee hours to take care of your needs prior to the opening. We tried to induce Elmer to serve coffee and doughnuts, but our plea fell on deaf ears. Maybe next year. A reminder that Elmer is an official weighing station for the Genesee fishing contest. So if you are fortunate to land a whopper opening day, take it over to Elmer's and have it officially weighed.

Turkey Plant

The Division has just obtained a small flock of wild turkeys from New York State for stocking in the Beartown State Forest, Great Barrington.

The Division plans to use the Beartown flock as a source for stocking other areas in the state. Should more N. Y. turkeys be made available, a second release will be made in the Hawley State Forest. The N. Y. birds are direct descendants of wild turkeys that fed the Pilgrims.

Man Of The Year

The Mass. Chapter of Ducks Unlimited has voted their "Man of the Year Award" to U. S. Congressman Silvio O. Conte of the First Congressional Dist.

Conte, one of the leading environmentalists in Congress, has been on the Migratory Bird Conservation Commission since 1965. During his tenure on the Commission, 18 new wildlife refuges comprising 225,218 acres of wetlands have been put into refuge management.

Farming Pacific Salmon

Massachusetts housewives who grimace at every ring of the local grocery cash register may find new hope in Pacific Northwest salmon. United Press Int.

reports that salmon there may soon give supermarket chicken a run for its money if National Marine Fisheries Service experiments in Washington state turn out as well as expected.

Commercially raised salmon fry would be a high octane diet for about a year until they reached pan-size proportions. If consumers like the small salmon, the program will expand to produce more than two million pounds of salmon a year.

Fishery scientists agree there are about 10,000 acres suitable for salmon "forming" in Puget Sound alone. Considering that more than 500,000 salmon could be reared per acre each year, scientists believe the current experiments will lead to a new fish farming era for Puget Sound and other protected salt water areas.

Paul Veronesi Earns Basketball Letter At Ithaca College

ITHACA, N.Y.—Senior guard Paul Veronesi of Agawam has been awarded a varsity letter for his performances with the 1971-72 Ithaca College basketball team.

The Ithacans posted a 15-8 record this season, and were selected to appear in the NCAA District II Regional playoffs.

Veronesi, who served as co-captain this year, concluded an outstanding collegiate career by averaging 16.2 points and four assists per game for the Ithacans. Overall, he had a career scoring average of 18.9 points a game, while winning three varsity letters and gaining All-American honors as a junior.

Veronesi was named to the ECAC Weekly All-Star teams on two occasions this winter, and was also selected as a first team All-Star on the Independent College Athletic Conference team.

A Business Administration major at I.C., Veronesi is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Veronesi of 20 Central St. in Agawam, and is a 1968 graduate of Agawam High School.
